Parents as Teachers™

From the Board President & Executive Director

The impact of the global COVID-19 pandemic continued to test everyone in 2021. However, 2021 also brought with it noteworthy achievements and meaningful metrics as our medical science community developed highly effective vaccines with remarkable speed to shield us from the virus. As a direct consequence, many lives were saved, COVID-19 related hospitalizations and infections fell dramatically, and many of us safely resumed some pre-pandemic activities. Our Southern New Jersey COVID Response Program is proud to have played a significant role in these favorable outcomes.

Our work is far from over. As COVID-19 continues to reinvent itself with its variants and subvariants, our team continuously reexamines the methodologies for delivery of wide-ranging services across the Cooperative to those who rely on us. The needs of our clients cannot wait. Not even in a pandemic. Our staff has proven to be nimble, responsive, productive and proactive in this ever-changing climate.

While we marvel at the speed with which scientists formulated vaccines to stave off COVID-19, we also bear witness to the glaring racial voids that remain in our systems of care. That translates to real pain and flagrant discrimination endured by our neighbors. Identifying and addressing these inequities is an immense responsibility and one we continue to take very seriously.

Under threat of pandemic and other societal instabilities, there is one constant: our mission remains unchanged. We are resolute in our determination to ensure equity in maternal and infant health care, as well as family and community wellness initiatives driven by the necessity to address racism and implicit bias in the delivery of care.

To achieve this objective, we continue to implement and evaluate internal efforts while building sustainable relationships with our health care partners, government leaders, neighbors and you.

This Annual Report is testament to our organization's purpose and illustrates the sense of duty exemplified by the staff of the Southern New Jersey Perinatal Cooperative who have not only fulfilled, but also exceeded expectations and shattered goals in 2021.

Thank you for your ongoing partnership and passion to effect change. Our collective purpose is improving lives every day and leading to a healthier South Jersey.

Empowering Families with Tools for Better Health & a Better Future

While COVID-19 had an undeniable impact on the traditional approaches used to serve families in our community, the pandemic did not deter staff, who remained vigilant in their commitment to serve.

Camden Healthy Start implemented a quality improvement plan to increase the number of pregnant individuals enrolled in the program – and it worked. 308 pregnant individuals enrolled in 2021, a 34% increase from 2020. In total, Camden Healthy Start served 847 women, men and children including 174 babies, 77% of whom were breastfed.

Camden Healthy Start Met or Exceeded Key Program Objectives

92%	of child participants were placed to sleep in safe sleep environments	Goal: 80%
92%	of pregnant participants had documented Reproductive Life Plans	Goal: 90%
99%	of clients abstained from smoking cigarettes in the 3rd trimester	Goal: 90%

Camden Healthy Start's International Board Certified Lactation Consultant facilitated weekly support groups and virtual visits to clients seeking breastfeeding education and support. In addition to health education and family support, Camden Healthy Start provided more than 60,000 diapers to client families. In the fall of 2021, Camden Healthy Start received supplemental funding to create action plans to promote Infant Health Equity. Through a cross-sector collaboration, Camden Healthy Start's Community Action Network developed action plans to address barriers that contribute to disparities in infant mortality. A completed plan is due this Spring.

They make people's lives happy. There were a lot of days I was so sad and I sat with my Family Support Worker and it changed my day.

– Yinell Lara, Camden Healthy Start participant

Yinell Lara is grateful for the support she received from Camden Healthy Start during her pregnancy and after the birth of her twin daughters, one of whom died when she was 1-year-old. Yinell says if it wasn't for her Family Support Worker, she doesn't know how she would have gotten through such a difficult time.

Parents as Teachers

Parents as Teachers credits a new 'warm handoff' strategy with

The Connection for helping to reach and engage new parents. In 2021, Parents as Teachers enrolled 56 new families, up from 47 in 2020 and 17 in 2019. Using this new strategy, Service Coordinators with The Connection were able to schedule appointments directly onto the Parent Educators' calendars, reducing the amount of time spent conducting weekly outreach to pre-enrollment families. Throughout 2021, Parents as Teachers served 111 total families. During this time, the program expanded its geographic target population to include all of Camden County rather than just certain areas.

"It takes a village to raise a child. Parents as Teachers feels like the village I needed. It was necessary. It changed my life."

— Chacira Clark,

Chacira Clark takes her role as her child's first and best teacher seriously. As a mother of two older children, Chacira says she felt like she forgot everything when her son, Barima, was born. Having the accountability and reassurance from her Parent Educator helped her tremendously.

Healthy Women HEALTHY FAMILIES

Healthy Women, Healthy Families provided outreach, education and case management services to 485 high-risk families and individuals of childbearing age in South Jersey. Nine community-based agencies across South Jersey helped expand the initiative's impact with county-level activities that promote child and family wellness.

Doula care is among many services provided by this comprehensive statewide program. In 2021, 36 doula trainees supported 34 total births in Camden and Atlantic City, both targeted for their high rates of infant mortality. Families who are assigned to a doula are also assigned to a Community Health Worker who helps connect families to needed resources. Together, doula trainees and Community Health Workers served 79 families.

Breastfeeding support is another component of Healthy Women, Healthy Families. In 2021, the program facilitated 79 virtual support group sessions in Camden and Atlantic City along with virtual visits for individuals seeking one-on-one breastfeeding education and support.

Nurse-Family Partnership kept families engaged through a hybrid service delivery model that gave families options for how they wish to receive services. Nurses were flexible in meeting families in-person at their homes or at work, and virtually. In 2021, the program served 221 total families in Camden and Burlington Counties. Nurse-Family Partnership pairs first-time mothers/birthing individuals with specially-trained nurses who provide support from pregnancy until the child reaches age 2.

Nurse-Family Partnership Exceeded Key Program Objectives

100% of pregnant participants scheduled for prenatal visits	Goal: 85%
98% of parents had health insurance	Goal: 80%
96% of children up-to-date with well-child visits	Goal: 90%
63% of infants breastfed at six months	Goal: 60%

Atlantic County Healthy Families knows how to engage families and keep them in the program. In 2021, the program's one-year retention rate rose to 81%, up from 77% in 2020. The two-year rate jumped from 26% to 57% during that same period. For the fifth year in a row, Healthy Families exceeded two key program objectives including 97% of clients screened for postpartum depression (Goal: 80%) and 100% of clients attended postpartum checkups (Goal: 90%). Throughout 2021, Healthy Families served a total of 121 families.

Doula Defined

dou·la /,doole/ noun

A trained professional who provides continuous physical, emotional and informational support to a birthing individual before, during and shortly after childbirth.

Infant and Family Development provided one-on-one support to 25 at-risk families to facilitate positive parent-child relationships and healthy child development. Like many Cooperative programs, Infant and Family Development implemented a hybrid approach to service delivery that included both in-person and telehealth visits. Infant and Family Development is a home visiting program serving families in Atlantic County.

This little graduate was among 15 families who completed the Healthy Families program in 2021. The children will be moving on to Head Start Preschool or another program in the fall where they will continue their growth and education.

Engaging the Community as True Partners

Community engagement is central to most Cooperative programs. Amid the COVID-19 pandemic, our community-based programs found new ways to engage and connect with the communities they serve.

During National Lead Poisoning Prevention Week, Lead and Healthy Homes partnered with the city of Camden's Camden Strong Initiative, St. Joseph's Carpenter Society and Virtua Health for a lead screening event that reached more than 70 Camden City residents. In total, the program reached more than 1,700 South Jersey residents through outreach events.

Lead and Healthy Homes found new and creative ways to educate the community and raise awareness about childhood lead poisoning prevention. Among their 2021 highlights was an opportunity to be interviewed on POP 99.9 FM, a local radio station serving the South Jersey listening area. In 2021, Lead and Healthy Homes provided information, education and training to more than 2,000 consumers and nearly 1,300 providers. More than 350 Healthy Homes bags were distributed to South Jersey families along with 50 lead testing kits that identify hazardous levels of lead dust in homes. At each of the four Southern Regional Lead and Healthy Homes Coalition meetings, staff included an educational component to increase members' knowledge about lead and healthy homes.

The Non-Public School Nurse Program played an important role in safely keeping schools open for in-person learning amid the COVID-19 pandemic. The nurses have been instrumental in the planning and implementation of COVID-19 policies that resulted in decreased transmission of the virus. Services included strict COVID-19 case reporting, vaccine compliance, enforcing quarantine guidelines and monitoring on-site COVID-19 testing for school employees and students.

In addition to these new responsibilities, nurses provided routine services for students including care for acute illness and injury, care for students with chronic health conditions, mandatory screenings and mandatory annual school employee education and training. In 2021, nurses served 4,015 students in 13 non-public schools across Camden County.

County-based Healthy Mothers, Healthy Babies Coalitions continued to meet virtually in 2021, using their meetings as a networking opportunity to share information and resources. The Atlantic County Coalition took it a step further by creating a live, interactive resource list where members can update resources and services within Atlantic County. After many coalition events were canceled in 2020, the Burlington County Coalition successfully adjusted its "Pregnancy and Beyond Fair" to a virtual format. This month-long educational series featured six presentations for new and expecting mothers/individuals. The Salem/Cumberland Counties Coalition served as the host for three important trainings including a two-part training on Health Equity as well as a training about COVID-19 and pregnancy. The Gloucester County Coalition added one new member and one previous member returned.

Healthy Mothers, Healthy Babies Coalitions operate in Atlantic, Burlington, Cape May, Cumberland, Gloucester & Salem Counties.

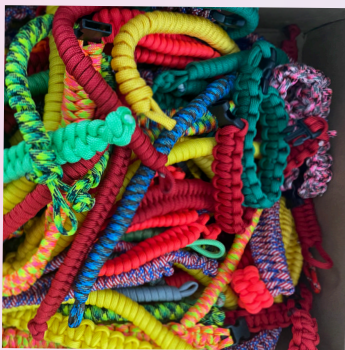

Since attending the "Pregnancy and Beyond Fair" in 2021, Christina Stengele says daughter, Catherine, was born safe and healthy. Christina says she is thankful for the information she received and is putting the diapers and wipes to good use.

Together with nine community partners and 35 Community Health Workers, the Southern New Jersey COVID Response Program provided information on COVID-19 prevention, testing and vaccination to nearly 35,000 individuals. The program delivered 28 webinars that reached nearly 150 total participants and garnered an additional 1,100 views. Among the offerings was a 'Conversation with Clinicians' webinar for South Jersey pediatricians that highlighted the safety of the COVID-19 vaccine for children ages 5-11. After the presentation, the number of pediatricians that responded 'Strongly Agree' with recommending the COVID-19 vaccine increased from 59% to 81%. The number of pediatricians that responded 'Strongly Disagree' to providing COVID-19 vaccinations decreased from 29% to just under 5%. The Southern NJ COVID Response Program is a collaboration of community-based organizations leading COVID-19 response efforts across South Jersey. Each community partner hires and deploys Community Health Workers to implement COVID response activities for vulnerable populations throughout South Jersey.

The Southern New Jersey COVID Response Program supported more than 100 vaccination events in 2021 including First Lady Tammy Murphy's Mini Family Festival at CAMcare in Clementon. The First Lady visited our COVID-19 information booth and received an update from staff along with representatives from CAMcare and the Community Planning & Advocacy Council.

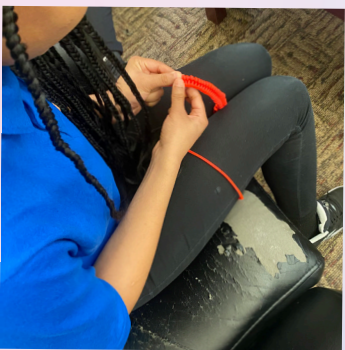

As schools returned to in-person learning, Teen Talk NJ saw its enrollment numbers increase. During the 2021-2022 school year, the program served 158 middle school youth, up from 65 the previous school year. The program received additional funding to add the Love Notes curriculum to its menu of services. 100 youth enrolled in the curriculum, exceeding its goal of 65. In the summer of 2021, Teen Talk NJ brought back the Teen Summer Series to engage youth when school was not in session. Three separate series were held including one virtual series that reached 25 youth, compared to six in 2020.

In addition, three Teen Speak programs were held for parents of teens. In 2021, Teen Talk NJ launched a monthly newsletter to announce youth programming and events along with informational tips for teens.

Community service learning is an essential component of the Teen Outreach Program curriculum facilitated by Teen Talk NJ. In 2021, youth participants completed 860 hours of community service. Among their community service projects, teens made paracord bracelets for military veterans. Also called "survival bracelets", these bracelets can be used to save a life in an emergency.

RURAL MOMS MEETUP

Rural Moms Meetup serves as a space where Salem and Cumberland County moms can meet virtually and talk about the importance of family health and ways to access resources in their communities. Launched in the fall of 2021, meetups are held monthly and each session tackles a key health topic such as lead poisoning prevention, nutrition and COVID-19.

Improving the Quality of Care by Strengthening the System of Care

COVID-19 created far-reaching complications and inconveniences in almost every facet of life.

One thing COVID-19 did not and could not compromise, the caliber of care provided by our staff and the ingenuity they integrated in identifying and implementing new approaches to serving our clients.

"I love this experience. I'm so grateful to be part of this team and to have the opportunity to empower and educate people in my community. The best feedback is non-verbal – it's the glow on the parents' faces as their child reaches developmental milestones. That's the best feeling in the world."

—LaVonia Abavana, Parent leader, Lead community advocate for the ECCS CoIIN pictured with her son King Sebastian Ellison

The Connection coordinated more than 4,000 client referrals to vital services in 2021, exceeding its goals for the third consecutive year. Service Coordinators responded to incoming referrals across Atlantic, Burlington, Camden and Cape May Counties with an average response time of two business days. In most cases, Service Coordinators reached out to clients the same or next day after receiving the referral.

The Connection ... By the Numbers:

4,115 total clients referred to The Connection

1,594 clients connected to home visiting programs

852 service referrals provided to clients

Also, The Connection proudly partnered with the Camden Coalition of Healthcare Providers on the Safer Cities Prenatal Care Initiation Pilot. Service Coordinators triaged referrals from local hospital emergency departments of pregnant individuals who had not been connected to prenatal care. Service Coordinators empowered 162 individuals to overcome barriers to care by assisting them with appointment scheduling, transportation, and other needs.

Early Childhood Connection kept true to its name in 2021, working closely with parents to support children's academic, emotional and interpersonal success.

Despite in-person limitations imposed by COVID-19 restrictions,

Early Childhood Specialists facilitated/participated in 120 outreach events and presentations across Atlantic, Burlington, Cape May and Camden Counties, reaching 1,800 consumers and professionals through community outreach campaigns.

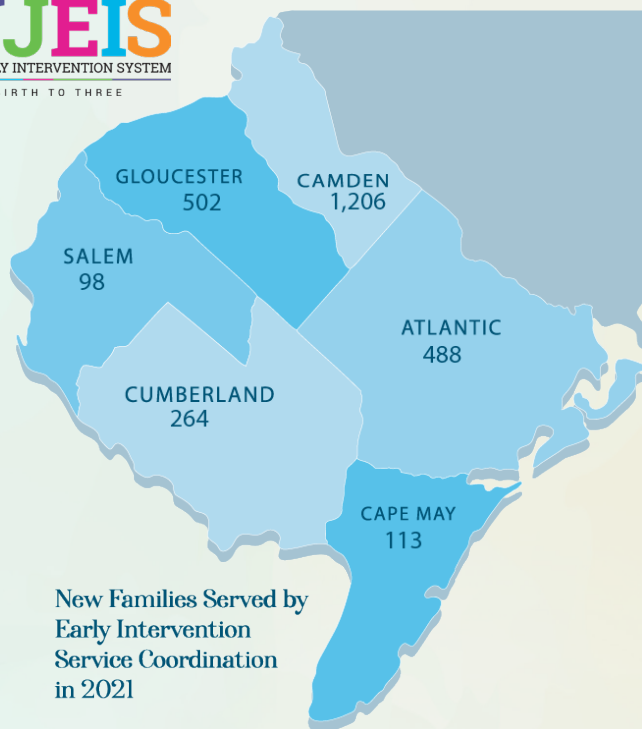

Early Childhood Specialists also:

- Served 1,171 families through referrals, screenings and Plan of Safe Care meetings
- Screened 193 South Jersey children through the Ages and Stages questionnaire portal (35% increase from 2020)
- Received and triaged 243 referrals
- Connected 152 clients to home visiting programs

Camden County Early Childhood Comprehensive Systems (ECCS) Collaborative Improvement and Innovation

Network (CoIIN) employed a family voice approach to its 2021 initiatives, building on successful collaborations with 18 community partners to improve the delivery of services designed to promote the healthy development of children from birth to age 3. ECCS CoIIN added two new parent leaders in 2021. Those partners conducted outreach and engagement activities with additional families to expand the CoIIN's footprint across Camden County. Although CoIIN staff concluded its official business, its community partners are continuing their collaboration and their work continues independently even after the program formally ended.

"My son has made so much progress this year. I was so concerned when he was 18 months-2 years. Now, he isn't even eligible for services because his scores are TOO high. What a difference this young boy has transformed to be."

—Parent to Early Intervention Service Coordinator

Early Intervention Service Coordination Unit

Service Coordinators served nearly 2,500 new families and a total of 4,485 families in 2021, connecting residents to development programs tailored for children with special needs. 2 additional service coordinators were added to the program's roster to meet the increase in the number of eligible children entering Early Intervention. While there was a return to in-person visits in 2021, the 37-person Early Intervention team continued providing hybrid services to accommodate parent preference to include both home visits and telehealth appointments.

NJ Immunization Information System Center (NJIIS)/ Immunization Registry enjoyed higher-than-expected interest among health care providers in 2021. Though the target audience is pediatricians and family care providers, all specialties requested training and access to patient immunization records. As a direct result, there were significant increases in the number of patients added to the registry statewide in 2021. The NJIIS team continued its ongoing mission of assisting the New Jersey Department of Health's NJIIS recruitment efforts by conducting 9 training sessions and training 471 users on the registry in 2021. The New Jersey Immunization Information System Support Center is a centralized database containing the immunization records of every child in New Jersey and serves a vital role in obtaining high vaccination rates. Its mission is to reduce and eliminate the incidence of vaccine-preventable diseases affecting children, adolescents, and adults through immunization.

continued its outreach efforts to educate about the dangers of substance use and misuse. 12,574 individuals across the Southern New Jersey Region were screened for substance use in 2021.

The Perinatal Addictions Prevention Project team conducted:

- 26 consumer education activities, reaching an audience of 300 people
- 25 professional education activities, connecting with 421 individuals (2nd year exceeding goal)
- Outreach and educational campaigns with Healthy Mothers, Healthy Babies Coalitions in Burlington and Cumberland/Salem Counties

The Perinatal Addictions Prevention Project continued its longstanding relationship with The Arc Gloucester and its Making Healthy Choices group by introducing a new project at the Gloucester County Library in Mullica Hill. Project participants showcased their work on awareness of perinatal substance use at the library in observance of Fetal Alcohol Spectrum Awareness Day in September. The Gloucester County Commissioners honored the group with a proclamation.

Postpartum Wellness Initiative for South Jersey maintained the full scope of its services in 2021, despite COVID-19.

In 2021, 6,574 individuals across Southern New Jersey were screened for postpartum depression by their provider (25% increase over 2020). Based on the scores recorded, Postpartum Wellness Initiative staff followed up with 1,393 women.

Our Purpose: to triage, assess, link to care and utilize telehealth intervention for individuals in the region who may be at risk for or are struggling with perinatal mood disorders.

PROJECT embrace

To meet the growing needs of pregnant individuals with substance use disorders, Project Embrace/Maternal Wraparound expanded its services to include pregnant individuals who use any substance, not just those who use opioids. Staff transitioned from the 2020 virtual meeting model with clients to a hybrid model: telehealth and telephone appointments, outdoor visits, and eventually in-home visits in the fall of 2021.

For the year, Project Embrace reports:

- 38 new clients enrolled
- 66 clients served (22% increase over 2020)
- 13 clients completed the program

"Project Embrace has been such a big help to me. They've provided so much support. I'm looking forward to the future and watching my daughter grow." —Tatiana Velez, Project Embrace client

After incarceration and homelessness, Tatiana Velez struggled with substance use. When Tatiana became pregnant, she knew she had to get on a path to better health for her and her daughter, Tiana.

Tobacco-Free FOR A HEALTHY NEW JERSEY

Tobacco-Free for a Healthy New Jersey boasted an impressive increase in participation among the Latinx population for NJ Quitline in 2021. Previously, the number of individuals who identify as Latinx was at 8%, well below the national average. As a direct result of an aggressive campaign targeting that same population, 14% of NJ Quitline's participants in 2021 identified as Latinx.

PERINATAL COOPERATIVE Tobacco-Free NJ Health

Tobacco-Free for a Healthy New Jersey hosted multiple, successful webinars targeted at South Jersey's Latinx population in an effort to curb tobacco use.

Also in 2021, Tobacco-Free for a Healthy New Jersey reports:

- Number of community members who signed the Tobacco-Free Ride Pledge NJ: Clear Air for Kids in Cars campaign: 534 (29% increase from 2020). Those 534 individuals have committed to not smoke or vape in their motor vehicles while children 18 or younger were present.
- Train-the-trainer curriculum sessions for Ask. Advise. Refer. Reached: 340 professional participants (second year exceeding goal)
- Added an educational presentation called Let's Chat, a tool designed to help parents talk to their children about the dangers of tobacco use
- Engaged with staff at MD Anderson Cancer Center at Cooper, encouraging doctors to make patient referrals to NJ Quitline

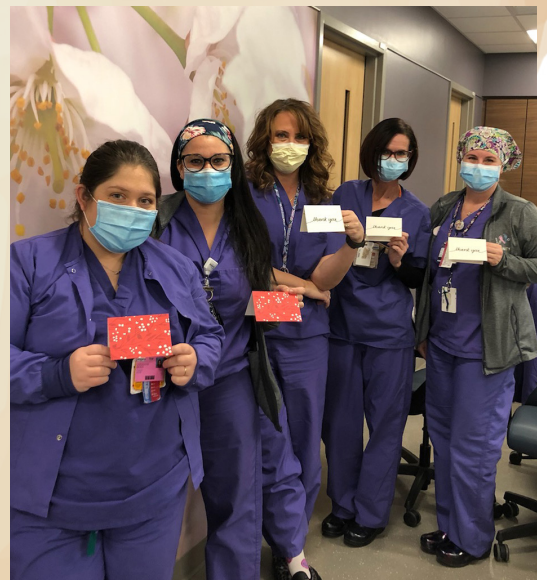

Tobacco-Free for a Healthy New Jersey urges drivers to take the Clean Air for Kids in Cars Pledge on their website tobaccofreeridepledge.com.

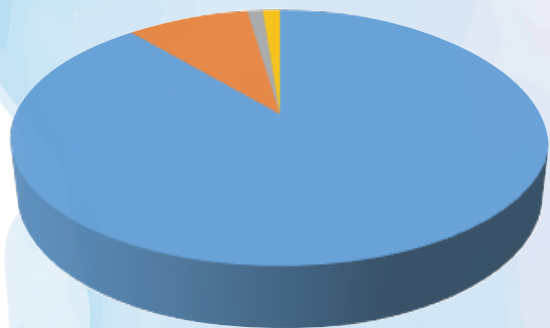

Special Thanks to...

As part of the 2021 Dr. Martin Luther King, Jr. Day of Service, Cooperative staff sent thank you cards to area frontline medical staff and health care workers for their service and dedication to the patients of South Jersey during the pandemic.
